

Kerri Forster ▶

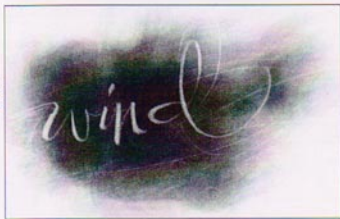

I wrote "stupid" with a pointed brush and clean water and then dropped in graphite powder. Used pencil to play with it a little more, then penciled in the rest of the text.

THE WILL TO BE! stupid
IS A POWERFUL FORCE

▲ Kerri
Pencil drawn.

Kerri ▶
Rubbed graphite powder onto paper and then used an eraser to write "wind."

abc

◀ Annette Wichmann

Used a water brush to write a letter with clean water. While it was still wet, shaved the Derwent XL water-soluble graphite block (Raw Umber) ovetop and then lightly tapped the page so the shavings would collect along the edge of the letter. Wait for the first letter to dry before writing the next letter.

◀ Thea

Written on Arches
Textwove with a folded ruling pen and water, then dropped in shaved graphite and added a shadow.

Thea ▶

Rubbing first with the Art Graf Black Carbon disk (the tailor shape) which didn't quite touch the paper and then writing into it with a pointed water brush.

Thea ▶

Written on Arches
Textwove with water using a 5/8" Horizon pen and then added shavings from a Sarfond Noblot Ink Pencil.
When it was dry I added
the shadow and quote.

