Christine was inspired to try these free-form letters from a class by Lynn Giunta during Workshop Week. She used her own pre-painted, decorated papers from her stash and chose happy colours to reflect a positive vibe.

Watermelon
2023
12 x 6 inches

Annette found images of watermelons on Pixabay (royalty-free) and printed several. She wrote on the back with a pencil in Neuland lettering style (remembering to write certain letters backwards). She cut out the shapes and glued them to green cardstock, then outlined the letters with a 0.3 black Micron. Finally, she added watermelon seeds in the elbows of the letters using a Neuland FineOne Flex marker.

The rocks are acrylic-washed tissue paper glued to Canson XL watercolour paper. A swash of Super Granulating Schmincke watercolour (Tundra Violet) was using for the background of the lettering, which was done with a white Gelly Roll pen (10). The letters are from the book Marker Lettering Volume 1 by Lynn Sleivinsky, and are based on the lettering style of Alan Blackman.

The words are a well-known American motivational phrase or proverb.
